

VERTICAL RAILS: USAGE

- Firstly, to ensure the vertical rail dries the towel effectively, the towel should be draped over the top of the rail and wrapped around the bar with the excess tucked behind the rail (image 1).
- When used in conjunction with a timer, we recommend that the timer is pre-set to come on approximately 1 hour prior to use, and then set to stay on for 2-3 hours after use.
- When used with a standard on/off switch, again turn on prior to use, and then turn off a few hours after use. You can leave the rails on for an extended period of time (e.g. 24/48 hours) without any issues – don't worry if you forget to turn the rails off after the towel is dry.
- Once the towel is dry, if you have a hook installed, you can simply drape the towel over the hook for a neater look (image 2).
